

Pre-GMAT Math Tutoring

HappyPrep, located at 260 W. 35th St in Manhattan, offers tutoring in algebra, arithmetic, statistics, geometry, word problems, fractions, ratios, percents and more for students who need a refresher of high school-level math before beginning high-level preparation for the GMAT.

During the first meeting with each new student, a short and painless diagnostic test is given, which allows the student to be matched with a tutor and a specialized plan to be developed for him or her, to maximize the student's time and investment.

Eight Hour Tutoring Package

Appointments available weekends and every weekday evening.

HappyPrep is run by Jennifer Dziura, a teacher and tutor who has helped students excel for nearly a decade, from private coaching, to writing published manuals for major national test prep companies, to teaching in environments ranging from the Manhattan GMAT offices to underserved Bronx public schools to highly intensive Korean-American study academies. She is an expert in the GMAT, SAT, and many other exams.

Jennifer is a Dartmouth graduate, has a perfect score on the SAT and a 770 on the GMAT, and has taught and tutored over a thousand students. At HappyPrep, she has assembled a team of tutors -- all graduates of Cornell, Stanford, and Dartmouth -- who are talented, patient, and extremely enthusiastic about helping adult students master math.
